DAVIS, J. JULY , 2002

Plaintiff, a prisoner, has filed a pro se 42 U.S.C. § 1983 civil rights complaint against members of the staff at the State Correctional Institution at Somerset (S.C.I. Somerset). He is alleging, in essence, that the defendants violated his constitutional rights because he did not received adequate medical treatment for a bone disease.

For the reasons outlined below, the court will grant plaintiff leave to proceed in forma pauperis, and transfer this civil action to the United States District Court for the Western District of Pennsylvania.

Venue for actions under 42 U.S.C. § 1983 is governed by 28 U.S.C. § 1391(b), which provides that this action may be brought in: "(1) a judicial district where any defendant resides, if all defendants reside in the same State, (2) a judicial district in which a substantial part of the events or omissions giving rise to the claim occurred, or a substantial part of the property that is the subject of the action is situated, or (3) a judicial district in which any defendant may be found, if there is no district in which the action may otherwise be brought."

The alleged constitutional violations occurred at S.C.I. Somerset which is located in the Western District of Pennsylvania. Since the claim did not arise in the Eastern District of Pennsylvania, and the defendants do not appear to be located in the Eastern District of Pennsylvania, venue is improper in this court.

When venue is improper, as in this case, the court may, in the interests of justice, transfer the case to a district court in which it could have been brought. 28 U.S.C. § 1406(a). Under the facts set forth in the complaint, the case could have been brought in the Western District of Pennsylvania.

Pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1406(a), the court will transfer the case to the United States District Court for the Western District of Pennsylvania.
